

Monday in Washington the United States Supreme Court laid the basis of the "fair trade" laws which have crept into the statute books of 48 of the 48 states.

Approved purpose of such laws was to permit manufacturers to fix a minimum price below which retailers were prohibited from offering merchandise to the public.

The supreme court destroyed the heart of the "fair trade" legislation by ruling that the "retailer" store selling a price agreement with the manufacturer the store couldn't be prosecuted for cutting prices.

There are arguments, of course, in behalf of a manufacturer's right to control prices all the way down the line to and including the moment of actual sale to the ultimate consumer. But such arguments don't carry much weight with the public, with the newspapers, or with anyone else who honestly believes in free enterprise and competitive merchandising.

The right to buy and sell, like the right to speak and print what you think, is an absolute one, and can't be abridged except by the common law governing fraud—or slander and libel, in the case of speech and press freedom.

The man who asks governmental protection against a competitor's pricing is inadvertently opening the door to state socialism, and might eventually expect the government to come along and take over his entire business. I note that in Monday's supreme court decision the leftist Justice Frankfurter did indeed write the dissenting opinion.

But six of the nine justices, headed by Douglas, threw the "fair trade" laws out.

Speaking of Justice William O. Douglas, I read a statement he made from Chicago Tuesday on what he found during his second tour of Asia.

It was a warning statement to the American people. The jurist said:

"The world is in a revolution which can not be bought off with dollars. We can not remake the world in our image but we can help those who are seeking an escape from squalor to find alternatives to Communism. There are rumblings in every village from the Mediterranean to the Pacific."

"Specific complaints" of native peoples assisted by the supreme court justice in the Rotarian magazine, where his statement appeared, included:

Absence of medical care
Lack of schools
A need for land reform
A desire to learn modern farming

The right to vote
A new sense of nationalism.
Douglas' report reminds you of what Wendell Willkie found during his own foreign tour, and which he reported in the book "One World."

Our disaster in China was already complete, but the Iran oil explosion against Great Britain hadn't happened, when Douglas wrote his statement. But his advice seems to cover both cases. He said:

"We have relied more and more on our military to do our thinking and planning for us," Douglas said, "that if America undertook to match Russia in a program of political action, 'the chances of success would be considerable.'"

In Washington Tuesday the new boss of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, W. Stuart Symington, announced he had fired the RFC's Minneapolis manager for an "improper" get-rich-quick deal.

The manager, E. M. Rowlands, is accused of making $38,000 profit by renting a government warehouse from one agency and then leasing it at a higher price to another federal bureau.

Symington said:

"I'm not concerned with whether it was illegal, but I'm dead certain it was improper—and Mr. Rowlands is out."

Of course it was improper, and when Symington fired the man without waiting to debate fine points of law he only did what every top public official is supposed to do.

Federal morality may be at a record low ebb, but the public has got to recognize and applaud a good opening performance by the new RFC chief. Civicism won't be found anywhere. The cure for fraud is to demand honest administrators, and then support them—so honest men won't be afraid to take jobs in the federal service.

The Kitchen Now Getting Attention

"The kitchen has received more attention than any other room in the home in recent years," stated W. M. Sparks, Hempstead County Supervisor, Farmers Home Administration, Hope.

Few families live in houses of their own planning and rural home-makers continue to seek help in converting kitchens of previous generations into convenient arrangements that will accommodate their respective families now.

Larger incomes, extension of rural electrification and increased availability of equipment and appliances together with available credit makes possible the realization of more efficient kitchens and rural homes.

Sinks, running water, and many other installations and remodeling to make rural homes more efficient and comfortable may be had with a loan through the Farmers Home Administration which includes assistance with planning and construction, Mr. Sparks said.

These loans are available under the Farm Ownership and Farm Housing Program, the interest rate is 4 per cent and the loans are repayable within a period of not more than 40 years.

County Supervisor Sparks further stated that farmers in Hempstead county are interested in developing their farms for more efficient operations. This requires soil conservation, pasture improvement, drainage, fences and other items of improvement.

Funds may be included in either the Farm Ownership or Farm Housing loans for land improvement as well as for construction or repair of dwellings and other essential farm buildings. Applications for this type of service should be made at the Farmers Home Administration Office, explained the County Supervisor, and he pointed out that all applications will be given prompt attention.

Miller County Draft Board Resigns

Texarkana, May 23 —(P) — Resignation of selective service deferment policies has caused the entire Miller county draft board to resign.

T. A. Clark, Jr., Texarkana, a board member, said the group had asked to be relieved by mid June.

He said deferment directives now in force would result in "drafting poor boys," not in college or on farms.

Other board members didn't comment.

At Little Rock selective service officials could not be reached for comment immediately.

Military Funeral for Prescott War Hero

A Military Funeral Service will be conducted today at the Pleasant Hill Church of Christ, about five miles north of Prescott on Highway 19 at 2:30 p. m. for Cpl. Floyd M. "Buddy" Brown who was killed in action in Korea July 24, 1950, at the age of 21.

The Rev. McClain will be in charge of the service.

Cpl. Brown attended the Prescott High School. Prior to his discharge on October 18, 1949, he had served three years in the Army, receiving his thirteen weeks training at Fort Lewis, Washington, and the remainder of that service at Osaka General Hospital, Osaka, Japan.

He re-enlisted in February 1950 and was sent back at his request to Osaka on April 20. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Brown of Prescott, Route 2, received a letter early in June that his cavalry outfit had returned earlier than had been expected from maneuvers because of the situation in Korea.

On November 28, 1950, his parents were notified that their son had been killed in action.

Cpl. Brown was born near Prescott, December 25, 1928, and lived in that vicinity throughout his childhood.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Brown of Prescott; two sisters, Miss Ruth Brown of Little Rock, and Miss Velma Brown of Prescott; one brother, Arthur Brown of Prescott. His relatives in Hope include two aunts, Mrs. Hattie Sisson and Mrs. Louis Ferguson and two uncles, Jim Brown and Dick Brown.

Star Carrier Boy Breaks an Arm

Harry Jones, 13, Star carrier for North Main, North Elm, and North Walnut streets, broke his right arm while playing with other carriers at a Hope Star circulation department party for the boys last night. The arm was set by Dr. J. G. Martindale.

The party was a hamburger-ry for 18 carriers in the backyard of the A. H. Washburn residence, 709 S. Main street, Star publisher, arranged by Mr. Washburn and Paul H. Jones, managing editor and circulation manager. Young Jones, no relation, slipped on the grass, landing on his wrist and snapped the small bone in his arm. It was the first accident in a long series of mishaps.

"I see what he eats at breakfast, and I see what he eats at night for dinner. She just picks at her food. Well then where'd she pick up all that extra weight? It must be at lunch."

Now for a man, that is pretty sound and crafty reasoning. The disillusioned husband goes on to draw this mental conclusion:

"Tuna fish and lettuce — heck! She must be eating a whole and half the front lawn every day while I'm at work."

Envy probably prompts him to this thought. For by now the poor fellow has gotten used to trying to earn his living, and all he has to do is sit home in his armchair and let his wife do the work.

Flying Saucers, Be They Real or Imaginary, Are Back With Us in at Least Two States

By United Press

Flying saucers, be they real or imaginary, were back with us today.

They appeared, according to the people who claimed they saw them, over Kansas and Minnesota yesterday.

About 50 residents at the eastern end of Rainy lake near International Falls, Minn., said they saw a "crystal ball" which performed like "a huge humming bird" as it flashed across the sky. It was joined later by another "crystal ball."

An American Airlines pilot said a "bluish white star played tag" with his plane at an altitude of 21,000 feet southwest of Dodge City, Kans.

The air force has investigated many reports of weird aerial phenomena and has denied finding any evidence of "flying saucers."

The Minnesota observers said their "crystal ball" dashed across the sky at speeds "in excess of 700 miles an hour," then stopped suddenly and hung motionless above the lake. Then it shot upwards 200 feet in a split second, they said.

Suddenly, with the sun's rays reflecting from it, the ball moved toward a nearby cloud where it was joined by a second "crystal ball," the witnesses said. They hovered around the area for 15 minutes before flying off.

Meanwhile, 700 miles away, American Airlines Capt. W. R. Hunt watched the "bluish white star" which, he said, dashed around his plane at 500 to 1,000 miles an hour.

"The star moved backward and forward, then up and down, and then seemed to come to a stop," Hunt said. "Then it would complete the pattern over again but would never approach closer than five miles to my plane."

Northwest Airlines officials said their pilots saw no "strange objects" over Minnesota yesterday.

They suggested that the "crystal ball" seen near International Falls may have been a balloon released by Minnesota scientists who are working on a cosmic ray project.

"Many of the 'flying saucers' reported in past years have turned out to be balloons set out to gather data on cosmic rays or other conditions."

Onlookers across the Canadian border at Fort Francis, Ont., said they also saw the two saucers. The Canadian observers said the flying objects "glinted in the sun like a diamond."

When a Man Marries He Is Cautious About Telling the Wife What He Had for Dinner

By HAL BOYLE

New York. —(P) — When a man is first married, he comes home from his day's work and says:

"Well, honey, what did you have for lunch?"

"Oh, just a smidgeon of tuna fish on a lettuce leaf," replies the little lady.

"That all," says the husband, feeling giddy because he himself had pig knuckles, sauerkraut, potatoes, break and butter, apple pie and beer. "Now Honey you just got to eat more or you'll fade away — like an old soldier. I'm worried about you."

At this husbandly solicitude the little lady gives a fluttery imitation of a dying swan, and answers:

"Oh, don't you worry your head about me while you're at the office. I eat enough. But it's no fun cooking for one, and I'd just rather snack in the middle of the day — and wait until you get home so we can enjoy a real meal together."

A wife can get away with this air of marital sacrifice for as long as five years if she is an able actress. And I have yet to see a wife that isn't able, in moments of stress, to make Ethel Barrymore look like a gawky schoolgirl playing a walk-on role.

But sooner or later the husband, though his love runs deep as a river, is going to have his doubts. He is just going to plain disbelief that the little lady lunches on nothing but "an itty-bitty bite of tuna fish on a lettuce leaf."

For one thing, she isn't the little lady she was when he married her. She's picked up about fifteen or twenty pounds.

"Let's see," he begins to muse. "I see what she eats at breakfast, and I see what she eats at night for dinner. She just picks at her food. Well then where'd she pick up all that extra weight? It must be at lunch."

Now for a man, that is pretty sound and crafty reasoning. The disillusioned husband goes on to draw this mental conclusion:

"Tuna fish and lettuce — heck! She must be eating a whole and half the front lawn every day while I'm at work."

Envy probably prompts him to this thought. For by now the poor fellow has gotten used to trying to earn his living, and all he has to do is sit home in his armchair and let his wife do the work.

Man Gets Life in DeQueen Murder Trial

De Queen, May 23 — (P) — A young mother's death, conceived from authorities for four months, brought a sentence of life imprisonment for her 29-year-old husband here last night.

A Sevier county circuit court jury convicted Willie King, an itinerant laborer, of first degree murder. The jury fixed punishment at life imprisonment, rather than the possible death sentence.

Prosecution witnesses testified that Mrs. King's body, so decomposed that an autopsy could not be performed, was found in a shallow grave in woods near here last March 22.

King was quoted as saying his wife died unexpectedly Nov. 21, 1950 while they and their three small children were between his father's home near here and DeQueen; that he became frightened and hid the body without telling anyone.

King, who pleaded innocent because of insanity, did not testify. Neither did any of the children, the oldest six, who've been turned over by court to Mrs. King's brother, Chester Morris, at Clarkdale, Miss.

An Arkansas state hospital physician testified King first told of his wife's death after being arrested at Atoka, Okla., on a minor charge in March.

Asserts No One Pushed Dismissal of MacArthur

Washington, May 23 —(P) — Gen. Omar N. Bradley said today that in his opinion none of President Truman's key advisors was "pushing" for dismissal of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, made the statement in a sharp new exchange with Senator Wiley (R-Wis) over what was said at President Truman's conferences with his advisors on firing MacArthur.

As he did last week, with later support by an 18 go 8 senate committee vote, Bradley refused to testify about the attitude of different individuals. Specifically, he declined to say whether any of those who took part in conferences were "distinctly distressed" by the decision to fire MacArthur.

Continuing his prolonged testimony at the senate hearings on MacArthur's dismissal, Bradley said:

1. Acknowledged that the fighting in Korea restricts U. S. ability to counter possible Russian aggression elsewhere in the world, and named oil-rich Iran as now in "danger."

2. But insisted once again that MacArthur's proposed Korean strategy would not end the war and free the United States from the burdens here. He said they "might help a little bit."

3. Testified he believes MacArthur first proposed the use of U. S. ground troops in fighting the north Korean aggressors. President Truman had ordered the U. S. intervention by instructing that air and naval power be used to aid the South Koreans.

4. Agreed with Senator Connally (D-Tex) that the United States would have to demand some safeguards if it armed and equipped the Chinese Nationalist forces for operations against the Chinese Communists. Connally had suggested that Chiang Kai-shek, if given arms and a free hand, might use his forces in a way that could lead to war between the United States and Russia.

Several senators were still

Search for Young Girl Intensified

Santa Ana, Calif., May 23 (P) — The intensive search for missing 10-year-old Patricia Jean Hull extended into remote and mountainous areas of Orange county today and Sheriff James A. Mueck said water behind two dams will be dragged.

While the search by hundreds of volunteers, marines, sheriff's deputies and Boy Scouts went on, the ceaseless questioning of Henry Ford McCracken, held on suspicion of kidnapping, continued.

The pigtailed Patricia disappeared after attending a double feature movie matinee last Saturday, McCracken, 34, a guitar player and handyman, has admitted he attended the same movie. But he has denied assertions by witnesses that he left the theater in nearby Buena park with the child and took her to his auto court cabin.

Later bloodstains were found in McCracken's cabin and sheriff's investigators said the blood was not the same type as McCracken's. Tests are being made to determine if the blood is Patricia's type.

Sheriff Mueck said he would be behind Peter dam and Santee dam will be dragged. He said it has been learned McCracken once drove a truck in that area and was familiar with the roads in the isolated district.

District Attorney James L. Davis has called a special session of the county grand jury for Friday. He said he will ask McCracken's indictment on charges of murder, kidnapping and child stealing.

Searchers have been instructed to look for a yellow bedspread missing from McCracken's cabin. Investigators said the child's body might have been wrapped in it.

Bankers Told Emergency to Be Long

Hot Springs, May 23 — (AP) — One of the nation's financial leaders discussed the future today with such phrases as "higher taxes," "fullscale war" and "a possible long-term emergency."

James E. Shelton of Los Angeles, president of the American Bankers association, said in an address prepared for delivery at the closing session of the Arkansas Bankers association.

"We must gear our economy to both the size and duration of a tremendous program to prepare for fullscale war. Possibly it will extend beyond your lives and mine."

Shelton said higher taxes are inevitable, "even if the government cuts nonmilitary domestic expenditures to the bone. If the government fails or refuses to do this, then taxes will be unbearably high."

Alternatives to substantial deficit financing said the ABA chief are an increase in the national debt, thereby adding dangerous ly to inflationary pressures and further endangering the integrity of the American dollar, or to levy indirect taxes. The latter, Shelton added, would add only to the cost of living, "which is already too high."

He said neither of the alternatives he outlined is economically sound "and both lack candor and honesty in that they hide from the people what they are actually paying for the cost of government. Unfortunately, these methods are politically more attractive than direct taxation, which every one sees and understands."

Shelton predicted that a frank and full understanding of the real costs of government by the electorate would create an irresistible demand for reduction in government expenditures and expressed the hope that congress would squarely face this issue.

The California banker made an effort to forecast. He said that in diverting manpower and productive effort into a military program without needlessly disrupting essential domestic economy, there would be many inequities and even injustices, but the big thing is to get the job done.

Shelton concluded with this appeal: "The liberty-loving self-governing citizens of this country are for patriotic reasons suffering their liberties to be restricted and their increased heavy burdens to be increased. Now is the time, if ever, in the history of this nation, for an alert citizenry to stand by as minute men solemnly resolved that wartime controls over the economy and the wartime regimentation of the people shall not become a permanent part of our economy and of our life."

"We must not allow the present emergency to become the occasion for losing our American heritage of a free political and economic life. We must not lose at home the very freedoms which we are fighting to preserve abroad."

Flood Leaves Kansas Town Stranded

Hays, Kan., May 23 — (AP) — Volunteers and relief organizations today turned to the task of repairing damage and aiding victims of a swift-moving flood that swept through almost half of Hays.

At least four persons died. Three others are missing and believed drowned.

Mayor A. H. Harkness estimated property damage at more than $1,000,000.

Swirling water from voraciously quiet Big Creek spread over 75 blocks of this northwest Kansas town of 8,000 early yesterday. Hundreds of persons fled their homes, many clad only in nightclothes.

Others climbed to second stories or rooftops. Boats, tractors and even bulldozers and road graders were reported 15 feet deep in some persons.

Torrential rains forced Big creek out of its banks, giving the town little warning. The flood waters were reported 15 feet deep in some spots.

The water receded swiftly and many persons began returning to some of the lesser damaged homes last night.

The Hays national guard unit, a medical detachment, planned to give typhoid shots today. The city water was reported safe but Dr. Henry Foster, head of the national guard unit, advised the shots as a precautionary measure.

Fort Hays State college was badly hit. No more classes will be held this semester.

During the flood, about 100 cows were trapped in a dormitory. They formed a human chain from the building to higher ground, clinging tightly to each other. The water was waistdeep and still rising when the last of the girls reached safety.

The dean included Dr. C. F. Wiest, 73, retired professor of philosophy at the college; Robert Rippeau, 34; Mrs. June Bieging Hoffman, 20; and Gerald Gibson, 19. Gibson's body was found in a car that plunged off a road into a flooded area west of Hays. The other three drowned in their homes.

Two of Gibson's companions — Joanne Donham, 19, and her sister, Treva, 17 — were missing and believed drowned. Also missing in Hays was the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George N. Maska.

Schools and churches were used to house the victims. The Red Cross set up emergency feeding stations and trucks in cots and blankets.

It is believed that the cuckoo could not continue to survive as a species unless it placed its eggs in the nests of other birds to be hatched. Largest of insectivorous birds, it needs so much food that it must spend most of its time hunting it and probably could not live if it tried to incubate its own eggs.

Sweet Home Home Demonstration Club met at the home of Mrs. H. E. Nolan on May 18 with 13 members and one visitor, Mrs. Arl Mann, present. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Zack Stone. The song of the month, "Song Medley" was sung by the group followed by the devotion at Luke 10:38-42 read by Mrs. H. E. Nolan. Mrs. J. E. Ward led in prayer. Roll call was answered with "How I Can Improve My Home."

The dress revue and council meeting on May 22 was discussed. The club voted to buy $5 worth tickets on the roster to be given a way at visiting day June 30. Cupcake recipes were given out. Socks and panties were turned in for the Crippled Children's Home at Little Rock. All members were present and paid one dollar each to Mrs. Blackwood for fees.

Mrs. Blackwood gave a talk on refinishing floors and how to make baskets out of crepe paper and corsages from nylon hose. The surprise package was won by Mrs. H. E. Nolan. Refreshments were served by the hostess. The meeting adjourned to meet at the church house on June 15. The demonstration will be making corsages and flower arrangements.

Ozan St. Paul The Ozan St. Paul Home Demonstration Club met Wednesday May 18 in the home of Mrs. James Lewis for an all day meeting and pot luck dinner with a work session in the morning and business meeting the afternoon Mrs. A. F. Bohannon was co-hostess.

DOROTHY DIX Shirk Their Duty

Dear Miss Dix: I am a man in my late 30's, and come from a family of ten children (five girls and five boys). All are married except me. I live with my mother, who has signed her house over to me. I am to take care of her for the rest of her life. She is going on 72, and about four months ago, was taken ill so that she now needs constant care. I have asked my sisters to come one day a week each to take care of my mother and prepare the meals while I am away at work. Two of my sisters live out of town, so they can't come but the other three sisters and one sister-in-law were taking turns at my mother's care until two weeks ago. Then my sisters refused to continue their help so I had to hire a woman to come in to do the work.

My younger married brother wants to take mother and have his wife care for her. I will pay her board, doctor's bills and for everything she will need. But I don't think it right or fair for my sister-in-law to take over this job when my own sisters have refused it. I am seriously considering sending my mother to a home or hospital, going out board myself and renting the house to help pay hospital expenses. Do you think I would be doing the right thing?

Answer: Your sister-in-law is certainly a paragon among women to be willing to assume the care of an elderly and sick mother-in-law whose daughters are unwilling to take on the responsibility.

Sisters No Help Your sisters bear out the truth of the old adage, "One mother can take care of ten children, but ten children cannot take care of one mother." They resent the fact that your mother's house is signed over to you, but this seems like a fair arrangement since the financial responsibility seems to be entirely on your shoulders. Furthermore, a ten-way division wouldn't give any one child much to do.

The most suitable solution to your problem would be, in my estimation, to continue the present arrangement of hiring someone to come in every day, but since it is the obvious answer I suppose there must be some reason why it can't be done. If the reason is financial perhaps you could get the other sons and daughters to give you a little assistance here, since they refuse to give of their time.

Your decision about a home or hospital should, I think, rest on your mother's feelings. Is she willing to go away, or does the idea upset her greatly? If she is too adverse to the suggestion, you might take advantage of your angelic sister-in-law's good nature and let her have your mother—for a while, at least, to see how matters work out. Your mother is, after all, of considerable age and probably won't be with you too long. The least you can do—and your sisters and brother, if they could be convinced to see it that way—is to make her last years as happy and comfortable as possible.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I was engaged to be married to a girl who insisted that we should each be free to have dates with the opposite sex without interference or questioning. I met a woman who invited me to play chess with her, which was our mutual hobby. She made it very plain that our relationship was entirely platonic. I agreed and we spent many pleasant hours at the game. Then my fiancée found out about the platonic woman and the platonic woman found out about her and they both blew up. I reminded each of her demands and agreement, but it did no good. Now each one spends a lot of time saying what a heartless man I am. Please tell us bewildered men, just what does woman think she wants?

Answer: Well when it comes to a man every woman is a monopolist. And even when she isn't very keen about having him herself, as I judge your fiancée to have been about you, she wants other women to keep their paws off of him. She resents his being able to console himself for her indifference by finding pleasure in the society of any other woman. That goes about as far toward explaining the inconsistency of women as you are likely to get and it is something that is unpredictable and that no man can ever understand.

Also, your experience goes to show that there is no such thing as

160 Tons of TNT Explodes
Dugway, Utah, May 23 — (AP) — A blast one-fifth as strong as an atom bomb shook the Western Utah desert yesterday, but aside from a dust cloud.

The explosion — conducted by the army engineers — was described as the strongest non-atomic blast ever touched off.

One hundred and sixty tons of TNT were detonated beneath the surface of the ground. Spectators saw the ground shudder, then the blast burst through the surface and sent a cloud of smoke and dust boiling to an estimated height of 2,000 feet.

The explosion was part of the army engineers' experiments to determine the effect of underground blasts on varying types of construction. It was the biggest blast of a series of experiments which have been underway for three years.

The engineers refused to discuss it except in general terms. They explained that the TNT was placed at a depth to which they estimate a dropped bomb would penetrate.

Cabbage is a member of the family including Brussels sprouts, kale, turnips and rutabaga.

platonic friendship, at least as far as women are concerned. It is the smoke screen behind which a woman does her courting.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I have been going with a man for about a year but just recently he told me that he has an ex-wife and four children. He had previously told me his wife was dead. His sister is being married and his folks have sent me an invitation to the wedding. They also sent one to his ex-wife. Should I attend or not?

Answer: Not only would I not attend, I'd make a complete break with this man. If he would deceive you about something as important as having a former wife still living, he's not likely to stop at other deceptions. If his ex-wife is still friendly enough with him and his folks to be invited to an intimate family gathering like a wedding, she'd be around too much for your peace of mind.

Detroit Publisher Succumbs

Detroit, May 23 — (AP) — J. Edgar Stair, publisher, theater manager, banker in a spectacular career died today.

The former publisher of the Detroit Free Press died at St. Joseph's hospital in suburban Farmington at 12:50 a. m. (EST).

He was 62 years old. Death followed a series of operations over an extended period of time. He had been brought to St. Joseph's Sunday.

For all of 80 years — from his boyhood days of his father's publisher of a big newspaper — Stair was a busy man.

He had published the Free Press for nearly 35 years. Before that he was famed in theatrical circles as producer and theater manager.

The fortune he made in the theater enabled him to return to newspaper world as owner of his own metropolitan paper.

Stair sold the Free Press in 1916 to John S. Knight, present publisher and head of Knight Newspapers, Inc., and devoted himself to realty holdings and other interests.

A stern and vigorous personality, Michigan-born Edward Douglas Stair was a product of pioneer times. He was a young publisher on the North Dakota frontier. He took part in the Dakota homestead rush.

Stair acquired the Free Press in 1908. At the time he also published the old Detroit Journal.

He was known as a fighter. "I've yet to see a slightly timid newspaper that was a success," he used to say.

The Merino sheep was considered so valuable in Spain at one time that anyone attempting to export one was put to death.

The El Dorado-Monroe clash for top spot in the Cotton States league is turning into a battle of playing style with each team apparently able to beat the other at home.

El Dorado took its second straight from Monroe last night at El Dorado 4 to 1 to tighten its grip on top. Last week at Monroe, the Louisiana team knocked El Doorado out of first place with two wins.

In other games last night Natchez beat Greenville 10 to 7 in 11-innings and Greenwood took a 17 to 15 inning slugfest from Hot Springs. Clarkdale and Pine Bluff were rained out.

A home run with two men on in the sixth by Centerfielder Credel

Nance was the big blow for El Dorado. The Oilers pushed over all their runs in the sixth. Monroreached Pitcher Tommy Graham

for eight hits but could not bunt them while Bowden and Stewart gave up five safeties to El Dorado.

Natchez and Greenville matched scores until the 11th inning when the Indians showed over the three winning rallies. Roy Jayne pitched the whole game for Natchez and yielded 13 hits while his mates reached Pitchers Gilman, Mallon

and Heche for 11.

Greenwood scored four times in the 11th and then nipped a two-run

Hot Springs rally for its triumph.

Hot Springs had a seven run fourth inning. Each team used three pitchers, with Hot Springs' mountainmen being pounded for 19 hits while Greenwood pitchers gave up 15.

Tonight's games — Greenwood

at Hot Springs; Clarkdale at Pine

Bluff; Monroe at El Dorado; Natchez at Greenville.
